1. The art rejections over JP'822 are maintained.
2. The art rejections over Ohno have been withdrawn in view of the present arguments (see pages 9-12 of the amendment filed on 12/20/2007).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 1-8, 17, 18 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is not clear that a porous film could have more than two major surfaces.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1-8, 17, 18 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over JP 2002-209822. JP'822 discloses a porous film consisting of a polymetaphenylene isophthalamide, having micropores distributed in the entire surface of the porous film (paragraph 1, abstract). The porous film has a porosity of 40 to 90% and the open area of 10 to 70% on the film surface. The porous film has an average pore size of 0.5 to 20 microns at the film surface (paragraph 5). The porous film is about 25  $\mu\text{m}$  thick (paragraph 4). The open areas of two surfaces could be the same as the difference is in the range from 0-40%. The inorganic salt can be added with an amount from 0 to 50 wt% based on 100 wt% of the polymer (paragraph 13). Likewise, the presence of the inorganic salt is optional. JP'822 does not specifically disclose the heat of fusion, heat shrinkage, water permeability and gas permeability. However, those properties would be inherently present because JP'822 uses the same material as Applicants to form a porous film which has porosity, open area ratio of two surfaces, an average pore size on the film surface within the claimed ranges. This is in line with In re Spada, 15 USPQ 2d 1655 (1990) which holds that products of identical chemical composition can not have mutually exclusive properties. It seems from the claim, if one meets the structure recited, the properties must be met or Applicant's claim is incomplete.

It has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed blank is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed porous film from a prior art cleaning sheet satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987). Accordingly, JP'822 anticipates or strongly suggests the claimed subject matter.

Response to Arguments

8. The art rejections over JP'822 have been maintained for the following reasons. Applicants argue that since JP'822 uses a different process to form the porous film, JP'822 fails to teach or suggest the difference 0-40% in the open areas of two surfaces. The arguments are not found persuasive because they are not commensurate in scope with the claims. The open areas of two surfaces could be the same as the difference is in the range from 0-40%. It is suggested that the difference 5-40% in the open areas of two major surfaces would be sufficient to remove JP'822 as prior art.
